

Privacy and Security Policy

Your privacy

Mediation Awareness Group (MAG) will not publish information about you without your consent. It will not record or store personal data except in accordance with the rules set by the Data Protection Act 2018, including the General Data Protection Regulations. It does not knowingly host spy-ware or capture and retain any personal information from visitors to this website. In the event of a concern, please email info@mediationawareness.UK.

Unsolicited Emails

Mediation Awareness Group (MAG) does not send unsolicited emails or marketing emails. Emails are sent either in response to incoming email enquiries or as part of a process of communication that has been initiated by other means, for example at a meeting, during a telephone conversation, or via social media.

Event organisers, sponsors or supporters that have participated in Mediation Awareness Week during a previous year may receive an email to enquire whether they would like to participate during the current year. If no reply is received, they may receive a reminder.

If any person or organisation decides that it no longer wishes to receive any emails from a member of MAG, it should send the message to that effect to info@mediationawareness.UK.

Cookies

Our website uses cookies to give you the best experience while visiting it. It uses a cookie control system that enables you to either allow or disallow the use of cookies on your computer on your first visit to the website and at monthly intervals thereafter.

Cookies are small files saved to your computer's hard drive that track, save and store information about your interactions and use of the website. This allows the website, through its server, to provide you with a tailored experience within the website.

If you wish to deny the use and saving of cookies onto your computer's hard drive, you should adjust your web browser security settings to block all cookies from our website. However, you should be aware that if you do, you may lose some functionality on the website

Our website uses tracking software to monitor and help us understand how visitors use it. This software is provided by Google Analytics which uses cookies to track visitor usage. The software will save a cookie to your computer's hard drive in order to track and monitor your engagement with and use of the website, but it will not store, save or collect any personal information about you. You can read Google's privacy policy here for further information: <http://www.google.com/privacy.html>.

External linked websites

Mediation Awareness Group (MAG) cannot guarantee or verify the contents of any external linked website. Therefore, please note that you click on external links from this website at your own risk. Mediation Awareness Group (MAG) cannot be held liable for any damages or implications caused by visiting such external links.

Social Media

Communication, engagement and actions taken through the social media platforms identified on our website (Twitter, Instagram and Linked-in) are subject to the terms and conditions and privacy policies held by each of them.